The evaluation of attainment of programme outcome is an important mechanism which provides a yard stick to visualize how far the institution has succeeded in accomplishing its purpose. Since Pos and COs are designed by the University, the college is responsible to co-ordinate, implement, monitor and to analyse the attainment of these outcomes. The course outcomes and program outcomes differ from course to course and are designed as per syllabus and curriculum. All the teachers adhere to the course outcomes to meet the program outcomes. The course outcomes, program outcomes and programme specific outcomes also help to smooth the thinking and perspective of the student towards looking at a course. Outcome based learning serves as the basis to make faculty members more specific and focused.

Attainment in Evaluation Process-

Students under University examinations are evaluated for 75 /80/100 marks as external assessment and for 25 /20 marks as internal assessments under the semester pattern. Attainment of COs is monitored through feedback on curriculum from student, teacher, employer and alumini. This feedback is analyzed and necessary action is initiated. According to the above, each PO is assessed.

Level of attainment of POs are measured through Interaction with students (through seminars and group discussions, meetings etc, Class test, discussions with students, result analysis.) and the participation of students (through project work/ assignments/ practical's, curricular and co-curricular and extra – curricular activity).

Level of attainment is measured through students, teachers, alumni and employers by way of result analysis. The progression of student is measured through higher education or employment & their participation in social event.

Level of attainment of CO is evaluated through progress of student (monitored by class teacher) and development of analytical and application skills (monitored through project work, group discussion, quiz, competitions).
